SHR Drawing

We are still selling tickets for the SHR Fundraiser Drawing. We will be having various prizes and for the Grand Prize it will be a full Sulphur foal raised here on the Outlaw Ranch. Tickets are available for a $10.00 donation.

For more information contact

Naylene Nield - 435-865-0454 or naylene@interspan.com

Soon we will have a DVD of the Sulphur HMA available for purchase. If anyone is interested let us know and we will make sure we have enough for everyone that wants one. We're not sure how much it will be but we will try to keep the cost down so that the people that really want one can get one.

We would like to let anyone that is interested in joining us know that we will have a booth at the Wild Horse & Burro Expo in Reno, NV next year. We were personally invited to attend by Ginny Chiappinelli, the Secretary of the Expo, and she has a booth reserved for us. Hope you can join us, we would love to see all of you there!

We are still in the process of applying for the 501(c)3 status and we will let everyone know when we have qualified. If anyone has a member that they feel should be in the "Spotlight" for their achievements, please send their information to us before November 1, 2007. We will be sending out the newsletters in the months of February - May - August and November. If anyone would like to go out to the HMA, contact Naylene Nield and we will arrange a time. We will let everyone know when the annual meeting will be and it will be held here in Cedar City or out on the HMA.

If you have anything that you would like to put into the newsletter please send the information to

Sulphurs Vaquero Gold
SSHR#SS1192S

Deb has been a huge supporter of the Sulphur Springs horses and has helped to place Sulphur horses into quality homes when it has been needed. Deb recently sent me this story that she wrote and I felt inspired to share it with everyone.

"The Power of Visualization ? Years ago, I saw the image at the bottom (a brilliant painting by artist Pam Wildermuth) and printed out a copy, because I was so in love with the horse portrayed. He was my ideal vaquero horse, the horse of my dreams. I kept that image close to hand, studying it often. Meditating on it. Dreaming it. A year or so later, researching the origins of California's horses, I found a picture on the internet of a dark, almost black, stallion in Utah. His body conformation was perfect. His presence was magnificent. His color, grullo (or black dun) was exotic and true to the history of Old California's famous horse herds. Blood typing, DNA testing and historic record all pointed to the probability that this stallion was a direct descendant of Old California's original rancho breeding stock. I contacted the stallion's owners and asked if they had any colts by that stallion for sale. The answer was no, but they anticipated a birth in the spring. "If it's a boy, I want him!" I said. Didn't matter his color, I just knew I wanted a colt by that stallion. Come April (2004) a colt was born, and I made arrangements to purchase and fetch him from Utah. Three years later, I posed that colt (who I named Vaquero Gold) and took a picture which I hope gives some idea of how close I have come to my ideal vaquero horse. He even rubbed a matching bald spot in his mane! (dang his ornery hide) My colt doesn't quite personify the attitude displayed by the horse in the painting (which might be a good thing) although if truth were known, if I'd intruded on Vaquero Gold during mealtime, the photo might have looked a whole lot closer to the painting (VG does not appreciate interruptions to his dining pleasure). Also, if I'd really wanted to make the comparison complete, I wouldn't have brushed his hair and made him look so prude. Not to mention that VG is still a kid, while the horse in Pam's painting is mature. But... you get the point. The power of visualization? or just coincidence? Study the two pictures, and decide for yourself."
